Mrs. Lloyd Barton has led the Handley High School Parent-Teacher Association through one of its most active and successful years. We have never wanted for a thing—they anticipated our wishes. They have chaperoned every dance and party, they have brought us gifts of clocks and globes and pictures. We are grateful for their complete cooperation.

MISS ODELL is Senior Sponsor and no class, no school ever had a better one. An error in English to her is anathema, and her flashing eyes may almost burn a hole in you. But an effort to remove that error and a desire to understand the philosophy of Browning will bring forgiveness and great words of approval.

She makes you learn, and she makes you like it. More than that, she is the kind of a friend to understand your difficulties and help you with wise guidance.

Class Prophecy of 1944

Today, on my twenty-seventh birthday, as I was looking through my high school year book, which was substituted for the usual annual because of the war, I began to wonder what had become of my classmates in Handley High School. I decided to consult my crystal ball which has been my means of support for the past ten years. I guess it would be quite a shock to some of my former classmates to know that I, PEGGY YOUNG, am now known as Madame Dragons. However, as I gaze into my crystal ball I am sure I also will be astonished at some of my friends' occupations. The haze in my crystal ball is clearing now. I hear drums—and there's—yes, it's MARRY ETTA GOODE beating the drums just as she used to in old Handley High. But now she's playing with Gene Krupa, Jr., who leads the biggest name band in the United States. The drums go faint, but another vision is coming to view. Why, there's MARY LEE SARY in a large office. On the door to the office it reads: "Mary Lee Sary, Interior Decorator." The waiting room is full—Mary Lee must be pretty busy these days, but I can still remember when she used to spend her spare time looking at magazines on "how to decorate your home." The office disappears, and I can see in its place a beautiful black-haired girl in a silver fox evening jacket. But it's not a night club she's in—it looks like a department store. I can see clearly now. It's MARY LOU SCOTT modeling in Sak's Fifth Avenue in New York City.

The silver fox fades, and in its place I see a mink coat worn by EMMA LEE DUNKIN, who is autographing the books, a large audience of people is handing her one by one. Surely Emma didn't turn out to be a writer. I can see the front of one of the books now. "Caught in the Draft," by Emma Lee Dunkin. Well, she always was good in English. The girl standing by Emma Lee looks familiar. My goodness, it's JUANITA PARKER. Everybody seems to be congratulating her. Let's see if I can make out what they are saying. "A—wonderful—book—review." So Emma and Juanita are still sticking together, huh? Emma Lee writes the books and Juanita reviews them! Quite a system! The haze is appearing again, but underneath I see the scene changing to a radio studio. Why, it's EDWYNA CARSON behind that microphone. She seems to be talking just as fast as she used to when we were in school together. It seems to me I read a column in the newspaper written by her. She is affectionately known by the movie-stars as the one girl who can find out anything she's not supposed to know about their private life and their business life. I think her latest scoop is how M.G.M. is privately remaking "Gone With the Wind," starring RENA FAYE LYNCH as Scarlett O'Hara and OTIS BROOKS as Rhett Butler.

My, I'd almost forgotten my crystal ball. The radio scene has completely gone and in its place I see A. J. HAGLER and MAVANELLE NOBLES with two small children in an average-looking living room. They certainly look contented. I can remember when they made eyes at each other in English. The picture fades and a hospital room takes its place. Gracious, there's CLEO JOHNSON giving medical advice to a very wealthy woman. He always said he wanted to be a doctor, and he appears to be a very good one. The crystal grows dark and I can hear taps coming closer. Surely that's not FRANCES BRIDGES on that stake at Madison Square Garden. Hum—she's not bad as a tap dancer, and a lot of other people must think the same thing because the lights in front read "Frances Bridges, Tap Queen of 1954." The lights grow bright and I can see nothing now, but something seems to be forming in the crystal ball.

Why, it's the front of a newspaper I see. There's a large picture of FRANK RIGBY on the front, and the headlines read: "Famous Scientist invents new type of moth balls which are guaranteed to keep the moths in your closet." The newspaper blurs and a stone structure seems to be taking its place. My goodness, it's a lighthouse and the man who is the keeper appears to be none other than CORBETT MILIKEN. The lighthouse fades and I can see a number of men playing on a football field. Heavenly Days, there's EARL YORK. He looks as if he's coaching that football team. Oh, I remember reading about him in the sports section now. He coaches the Schenectady Stunks in the daytime and manages his own football team at night. The football field is disappearing and in its place I see a large office in a college. Is that MARY EMMA HOULIHAN behind that desk? Yes, it is! So Mary Emma is now the dean at Texas State College for Women, huh? She always was the brightest one in the class. A long road is taking the place of the college office, and I can see a lone traveler on that road. Surely that's not BOB STOREY strolling casually along dressed in rather obnoxious clothes! I see him clearly now—and it is Bobby! He's got some sort of pin sticking on his coat. Let's see if I can make out what it says. "President—Hobo—Union, 1954." Bob always said he'd be president.

I hear an airplane motor as the crystal grows darker. The fog is clearing and I can see an airplane motor as the crystal grows darker. The fog is clearing and I can see an airplane. Why, that's JENNIE LAURA EDWARDS at the wheel. I guess she is flying around the world for the third time. The crying of babies draws out the airplane motor. A day nursery is forming. Goodness, that's ETHEL CROWELL holding that child. Who'd ever have thought that Ethel would turn out to be an old maid who minds other women's brats? What is appearing in the crystal ball now? I can see a beauty shop forming. And there's PATSY NELL MORRIS giving a facial to a sophisticated lady. She always could put make-up on well. The beauty shop fades and I can see CHARLES RENFRO, who is being advertised as the world's thinnest man. He's been with Ringling Bros. circus for years.

As that picture disappears I notice two familiar faces coming to view. It's JOHNNIE JONES and MARGARET REVILL I see. Johnnie is the leader of an all-girl orchestra in the Palladium in New York, and Margaret is a singer with the orchestra. Why, there's WANDA BETH JOHNSTON sitting at one of those tables. I read in a magazine that Wanda Beth was recently elected Miss America of 1954. Her escort is the famous chemist, DONALD STARKS, who recently discovered a cure for sneezing. As my crystal grows dark I can hear the chanting of a tobacco auctioneer. Gracious, that's PHIL ULMER, and he's in a broadcasting studio. So he's working for Lucky Strike now, huh? As he leaves the microphone I see another face I recognize. It's BILL DAVIS who seems to be an announcer for the same program.

The broadcasting studio vanishes and I can see a large gym. Heavens, it's NELDA MORRISON teaching a gym class at Texas A. & M. As the picture blurs and nally fades I see two more old acquaintances appearing in my miraculous ball. Well, I declare! It's BEVY HAWKINS and TOMMY MORROW singing together. What a strange combination! Bevy has been singing with the Metropolitan Opera for years, and Tommy was recently introduced as Spike Jones' Singer. As that picture vanishes I can see a parking lot appearing. Goodness, that's KENNETH TAYLOR parking those cars. He's the manager of the "You Park 'em" parking lot in New York. That person who is just driving in looks familiar. Why it's BILLIE TINSLEY who recently became Tommy Manville's thirteenth wife. As that vision blurs I can see two well-remembered faces appearing! It's DONALD GRAVES and CHARLES WHITTLE. They are exchanging business cards. I'll try to tell what the cards say. Let's see the one Charles just received says: "Donald R. Graves, Criminal Lawyer, Fort Worth, Texas." Don always did like to argue. The card Don is examining reads: "Charles D. Whittle, Manager Leonard Bros., Fort Worth, Texas." My, how he's come up in the world! I can remember when he pretended to make cokes at the soda fountain in Leonards. The scene fades, and I can see ALLEN COLLET working diligently in the post office at Handley. Allen's postmaster of Handley now.

The crystal ball grows dark now for the last time, and I turn away, happy in the knowledge that my classmates of Handley High School are all prosperous and contented.

THE RUNNING OF THE GREYHOUNDS

On September 1, a group of boys gathered in the gym to get their football suits and begin another year of hard play. Coach told the boys that they were up against a hard fight, but if they worked hard physically and mentally, they could do something that they would be proud of.

There were only five lettermen back to help encourage the boys and determine the victories of the Greyhounds. That Handley High School spirit that prevails among the student body, and among the football team itself is one attribute that led to all the success that the team enjoyed this year.

Our first game was with Birdville, and things looked pretty bad, because of the inexperience of the team, and too, first games of the year always give the boys that well-known something called "The Jitters." It was much to everyone's surprise and most of all to the team's when the victory came out in our favor. Our next game was with Alvarado. The spirit of the team was high and everyone felt good because of the victory of the past week. Yes, again we came out on top. The game ended when we were ahead 39-6. The next week we were up against Birdville again. It was our first night game and it was away from our own field. We won that game, too. We were getting proud of ourselves; three games in a row in our favor was something to be proud of. The Midlothian game was next on the list. We had to play on the Midlothian field, and the weather was very disagreeable. The wind was blowing and there seemed to be odds against us. To our surprise, or maybe to our amazement, when the game ended the score was on our end of the field. The next game was with Alvarado, which was the final game with them, but during the week while in a practice game with Poly, one of the members of the team was injured with a wrenched knee. The game came up, and although we had a number of the odds against us, we won the game without too much difficulty. See, the score was 53-0. The next game was with Grandview. We had a very successful game and it ended while the score was 44-0 in our favor. After that game we entertained the Grandview team with a supper and an assembly program which featured our own students as well as students from our visiting school. We played Weatherford the next game, and came out on top with a score of 32-13. Then came the biggest game of the year. Yes, the Diamond Hill game was up for next week. We started out on the field with hope and determination to win and when the game came to an end, we had won, 27-0. Then we were up for the Bi-district. Everyone had been happy because of the victory of the district game, and when we came up against Nocona on December 2, we were practically down on our knees praying to win that game. The Bible says to have faith in prayers. As the game began and the team began to show what they could do, and with the student body praying and knowing that their prayers could be answered we won the Bi-district.

Then came regional. Our hopes were high because of the victories of the other two important games. The game was with Garland on their field and the weather was very bad. The team's spirit was still high in spite of the difficulties and the possibilities of losing a big game. Although we had bad luck with the game, everyone was happy to say that he was proud of the best football team in the whole state.

BASKETBALL

Again this year, due to the war conditions and the extended football season, the Handley High School Basketball Team had a short basketball season.

The boys had a few practice games with surrounding schools but the District championship was determined by a tournament played at Alvarado. This tournament was played on February 11, while we were up against many hardships in playing it. The boys lost their first game to Alvarado. The score was 21 to 22. The loss of this game put our boys out of running for championship. The first game, although it determined the championship, was not the last. We were playing against Birdville for the Consolation and we won by a score of 43 to 10. Then we had to play Diamond Hill, and when the whistle blew for the close of the game, we were in the lead 20 to 15.

The team had a fine season and they all had a wonderful time in playing their games, although they played under conditions that are usually not associated with basketball. The team enjoyed playing and the student body is proud to have had them represent our school in playing basketball this season.

OTIS BROOKS

CAN YOU PICTURE . . .

Mary Lee Sory not saying "Shut Up?"
Donald Graves not taking an interest in everything?
Frances Bridges and Billie Tinsley without their temper?
Margaret Revill a platinum blonde?
Charles Whittle without his grin?
Mary Etta Goode without her jive lingo?
Earl York without his broken teeth?
Mary Lou Scott not being neat?
Peggy Young without her freckles?
Charles Renfro being skinny?
Mary Emma Houlihan making anything but "A's"?
Emma Lee and Nita not sticking together?
Our football team without Bob Storey?
Tommie Morrow and Bevy Hawkins without their red hair?
Frances Bridges not winking her eye when she talks?

GUESS WHO . . .

Come on, men. Aw! Shut up. Mirabile Dictu, Lad! Hello, chum. Oh! You dog. Are you kiddin'?
It's the truth! Who'll go to town with me? Let's go to the Y. I didn't think you girls would do me this way. Now, folks, I'm tired of fooling with you! Now, girls, let's get quiet.

WOULDN'T IT BE NICE IF . . .

1. Teachers didn't assign lessons?
2. The Juniors and Seniors would co-operate all the time?
3. Pat and Nita weren't so tall?
4. The boys and girls in the Senior Class would agree on anything.
5. We had more holidays?
6. Handley High School had a school paper?
7. Lee Roy and Mary Etta could play for us more often?
8. Frank Rigby and Bill Davis were taller?
9. We had the gym at noon more often?
10. Our vacations were longer?
